

I am opposed to the proposed deregulation because it DECREASES the diversity of points of view available through the media by consolidating media ownership further into the hands of a few companies, an effect that is by nature anti-democratic and anti-competitive. The so-called "free" access provided by major television networks that deregulation purports to maintain is also no such thing: we all pay for the advertising used to support this type of programming.